How do students register?

Students in participating schools may pre-register in their home districts June 15-24. Late registrants may register at Johnstown High School on June 29.

Which school districts are taking part?

Eight districts have contracted to participate in the Regional Summer School: Amsterdam, Broadalbin-Perth, Canajoharie, Fort Plain, Gloversville, Johnstown, Northville, and St. Johnsville.

Are there eligibility requirements for summer school?

Students must be properly immunized to register for summer school.

Parents should check with their home school district for attendance and grade eligibility requirements.

Who can participate?

Students in grades 9-12 from the nine participating school districts may register for Regional Summer School.

What if my child is not a resident in a participating district?

Students who live in a non-participating district may attend if their parents/guardians make arrangements directly with a participating district. Parents would be required to pay $70 per course for tuition.

What about younger students?

Parents should check with their home districts to see if they are offering summer school for lower grade levels.

Is Drivers' Education being offered?

No. Check with your home district for the availability of Drivers' Ed.

What is the attendance policy for Regional Summer School?

More than three absences from any course will result in removal from that course. Lateness in excess of 10 minutes will be regarded as ½ absence. (For example, lateness to class on six occasions will be considered the equivalent of three absences. The next incident would result in removal from the course.) Lateness of less than 10 minutes on a regular basis may also result in removal from a course at the discretion of the summer school principal.

How are Regional Summer School students graded?

Students are graded according to the policy of their home school districts.

Is there a Code of Conduct for Regional Summer School?

Yes. Students must adhere to the Johnstown High School Code of Conduct.

Is transportation provided?

HFM BOCES is not providing transportation. Check with your home districts to see if they are offering transportation to and from summer school.

Is lunch provided for students?

No food is provided.
